This is a start, but has a long ways to go, I strongly urge you to pursue stronger remedies that will have a real impact at restoring competition to the industry.

Example, disclosing some APIs to ISVs, IHVs, IAPs, ICPs, and OEMs is a start, but all APIs should be released into the public domain, although Microsoft should be allowed to maintain some rights to them. Sections F and G are a good beginning.

A number of other additional steps need to be made that I will not go into here, although I urge you to look into pursuing (I'm sure you've received numerous suggestions).
